

WASHINGTON, March 16. The examination of the Sickles case by the Grand Jury has taken a new turn and may occupy a week or more. It was the wish of the counsel of Mr. Sickles to have a preliminary indictment from the jury and to leave the facts to be developed before the Court. Such was also the public expectation, but the course pursued by one of two of the jury in assuming a dictatorial position and becoming public prosecutors has aroused a counter feeling, and the jury have now determined to investigate the whole case. Mr. Butterworth's case has been examined into. Senator Gwin, Governor Walker and others were examined to-day, and fully corroborated Mr. Sickles' statement. It is said the Grand Jury are almost unanimous for exculpating him.

The President is still inclined to call an extra session, though he is opposed by most of the Cabinet, and especially by Secretaries Cobb and Thompson. He told Senator Gwin, recently that a proclamation will be issued calling a session on the 23d of August. Mr. Holt made this a positive condition of his going into the Cabinet. Several Senators are here awaiting the decision. Mr. Gwin leaves to-morrow, but will learn the purpose of the Cabinet before starting.

He found two coffins bearing the honored name. The veritable Hunter, however, was found in No. 3 vault; the coffin was in excellent preservation, the cloth only being decayed in some places; the handsome brass plate upon it was as perfect as when originally engraved, the coat of arms unimpaired, and the inscription, clear and distinct was as follows:—"John Hunter, Esq., died October 18, 1798, aged 64 years."

The most important news from the Continent is the evacuation of the Pope's territories by the French and Austrian troops.

The Moniteur of the 27th contained the following:—

His excellency Cardinal Antonelli announced on the 22d inst., by order of his Holiness, to their excellencies the Ambassadors of France and Austria near the Holy See, that the Holy Father full of gratitude for the aid given him up to the present time by their Majesties the Emperor of the French and the Emperor of Austria, thought it his duty to inform them that henceforth his government was strong enough to suffice for its own security, and to maintain peace in its states; and that consequently the Pope declared himself ready to enter into arrangements with the two powers with a view to combine within the shortest possible delay the simultaneous evacuation of his territory by the French and Austrian armies.

The Paris correspondent of the Independence Belge, writing on Saturday evening, says:—"To-day the Council of Ministers was convoked and presided over by the Emperor. His Majesty informed the Council that the apostolic nuncio had officially demanded the recall of the French troops now occupying Rome, and that an affirmative reply had been given. His Majesty, in concluding his statements, used words to this effect:—"You know, Messieurs, with what solicitude I have watched over the interests of the Holy Father; what zeal I have ever displayed in protecting his dignity. To-day he believes that he is able to dispense with the assistance of my government. I have taken the resolution to abandon him to the chances to which the obstinacy of his government exposes him, in not following my disinterested counsels."

The same correspondent says that all persons who know the country believe that if the French troops leave Civita Vecchia, a revolution will break out in Rome, and that the 18,000 men who compose the Pontifical army will be powerless to suppress it.

At Milan, owing to the popular demonstrations at Signor Dandolo's funeral, numerous arrests and domiciliary visits had been made. The prisoners were delivered over to a military commission. The funeral in question is said to have been attended by from ten to fifteen thousand people, and the air resounded with shouts of "Viva l'indépendance."

LATE NEWS.

Paraguay Expedition.

Arrival out of other Vessels.

Intelligence from them by way of England.

Advices have been received at this port from the Paraguay expedition to the 23d of January, upward of twenty days later than previously received.

The corvette Proble and transport Reliance had arrived at Montevideo, officers and crews in good health. The steamer Southern Star arrived at Buenos Ayres on the 21st January, and sailed on the 22d for Corrientes. She had on board a special commissioner from Montevideo, who was en route for Asuncion in hope of being of service both to President Lopez and the United States Commissioner.

The Harriet Lane, Fulton, and Water Witch, with the three brigs Bainbridge, Perry and Dolphin, arrived at Rosario on the 4th, where the steamers remained for several days coaling, while the brigs made sail up the stream by themselves.

On the 6th, the Water Witch sailed for Parana, being followed on the 7th by the Harriet Lane, and the 9th by the Fulton, with the flag of Admiral Shubrick at her fore.

The Commercial Times says that on the arrival of the squadron at Rosario, the local authorities immediately directed a despatch to Admiral Shubrick requesting to know the reason of this collection of force. The answer sent by the Admiral is not published.

Commissioner Bowlin and Admiral Shubrick had an interview with Urquiza, the nature of which has not been made public, but it is said that Urquiza in a few days afterward went up to Corrientes overland and it was supposed he had undertaken a mission to Paraguay.

Gen. Guido, late President of the Argentine Senate, had been appointed, by Urquiza, Minister Resident at Asuncion; and Senior Amral, late Brazilian Minister at Montevideo, has been accredited in the same capacity to Paraguay, with especial reference to the arrival of the American expedition. These Powers have not had higher resident agents than consuls at Asuncion hitherto.

There had been a correspondence between the American consul at Buenos Ayres and the Secretary of State for that province, in reference to American vessels of war entering the Parana river without asking permission from Buenos Ayres government. The tone of the correspondence shows that the question of etiquette only was involved, and the explanations of the consul were deemed sufficient.

The reported treaty between Buenos Ayres and the United States, is totally denied in Buenos Ayren papers.

The steamer from Rio de Janeiro, which arrived at Buenos Ayres January 15, brought $69,610 milreis, equal to $484,806 every man who died the same, by what name he may have been called in America. They will let the dead rest in their graves, and let the present and future.

MR. BARSTOW'S LECTURE.—We give, below, the correspondence between several of our citizens and Hon. Amos C. Barstow, of Providence, concerning the lecture which he has been invited to deliver here on Monday evening next:

Hon. AMOS C. BARSTOW, Providence:
Dear Sir:—Having heard your address, delivered before the Providence Young Men's Christian Union, on the 25th ultimo, very highly enlightened, and believing that a repetition of it, in this city, would be productive of much good, we respectfully solicit the favor of you, to name an evening most convenient to yourself, when we may hear it, at Aquidneck Hall, promising that we will not only make the audience free, but will use our best exertions to secure a large attendance.

Your attention and reply will very much oblige
Yours Very Respectfully,
Wm. H. Cranston, Job A. Peckham, T. Munford, Samuel J. H. Corzine, J. Bradford, John Allen, Wm. S. Nichols, N. M. Chafee, Thomas Coggeshall, Benj. Munford, R. B. Kinsley, H. Finch, Marshall C. Stocum, Wm. B. Swan, Wm. P. Sheffield, Oliver Read, Henry C. Stevens, Edwin Wilbur, David Watson, Jas. A. Greene, J. F. Teunaut, T. Dinkhead.

The following is Mr. Barstow's reply:
Providence, March 13th, 1859.

Gentl.—I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of your polite note of the 14th inst., inviting me to deliver, in your city, a lecture which was written for, and recently delivered before, the Christian Association of this city.

While the theme discussed in that lecture is one of marked importance; and while I am free to confess, that I gave to its preparation more than usual care; still, I cannot flatter myself that it possesses such excellencies as will render it particularly attractive beyond the circle of partial friends. However, as I recognize among you several, with whose friendship I have long been honored, I cheerfully accept of your invitation; and name Monday evening next, (21st inst.), as the time, Providence permitting, when I will be with you.

I am, Gentlemen,
Very Respectfully Yours,
A. C. BARSTOW.

To Messrs. R. B. Kinsley, Benj. Finch, Benj. Munford, and others.
THANKS.—"Law, in its relations to Virtue,"—Law in the family, school, shop, office, State, and all in their relations to virtue.

WE notice, with pleasure, that Marshall Seale is again "on his leathers," after the severe thump on his skull Tuesday night. The Marshal thinks the next time he takes "board," he shall stipulate for something less solid, and less likely to "fly to his head."

SOMETHING ON THE GOOSE QUESTION.—Sydney R. Hazard, Esq., presented us, yesterday, with a goose-egg weighing 11 ounces. It was one of two laid this Spring by a goose owned by Mr. Peleg S. Sherman, of Portsmouth. This goose doubtless was a considerable old fowl, who was determined to do her best toward supplying the great demand for eggs during the season of Lent.

Latest from Europe.

The City of Washington at New York brings European news to Mar. 2d, four days later than those previously received. Mr. D'Irakel has introduced the long favorably received. It is characterized as a "complicated yet feeble measure, which will meet equal opposition from Tories and democrats, and be viewed without admiration by the more moderate classes. Mr. Walpole, the Home Secretary, and Mr. Henley, the president of the Board of Trade, have resigned their posts rather than support it. The second reading is deferred for three weeks, and before the lapse of that interval the country may have something else to attend to.

Consols at the last degree were quoted 95 3-8. From this they have advanced to 96, but have subsequently receded to 95 3-8.

The exact terms offered by the Government to the Atlantic Telegraph Company have not yet transpired. They are under consideration by the Directors. The price of the £1,000 shares is 23s.

Illinois Central have fallen to a point lower than any yet touched, and are quoted 37 to 38 1/4 discount.

The Wheat market continues dull.

The Cotton market this week has opened with animation, and in some cases an improvement equal to a quarter of a cent has been paid.

It is asserted that Mr. John Orrell Lever, now member of Parliament for Galway, with his associate Directors of the Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, have made a contract—or entered into a written stipulation for such contract—for a fortnightly mail service between Galway and the United States; one-half of the trips to run to Boston, and the other alternate trips to Norfolk. The contract was agreed upon the 22d. It is designed eventually to run the mail steamers weekly, or even semi-weekly, should the success of the line warrant it. The vessels are to be all new iron, paddle-wheel steamships, combining all the best mechanical and scientific improvements, and warranted to run 20 miles an hour in smooth water. They will be about 2,000 tons burden.

Mr. Samuel Cunard had been created a baronet and gazetted as such.

JOHN HUNTER'S COFFIN.—In consequence of an Order in Council the coffins in the vaults of the church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields were ordered to be deposited in the catacombs. As it was known that the remains of the great Hunter were in the vaults, a diligent search of several days was made for his coffin by Mr. Frank Buckland, of the Life Guards, a son of the late respected Dean of Westminster, and his exertions were crowned with success.

placed before is almost the latest Republicanism. Let us see to it that they do not cheat us."

If our American Republican friends stand this sort of thing, we lose all hope of them. If the Journal does not fall upon the Post and grind it to powder, we shall believe it to be nothing but a green cheese and no mill-stone at all, as we have always supposed it to be.

But our plosky contemporary is impartial. He says about as hard things of the Straight Republicans as he can. He tries to make them out Democrats. Democrats! There was a time when that name thrilled the veins of every lover of human freedom. What does it mean now? What the Post means by it we know too well, and so do thousands of others who find themselves fighting against the prostituted banner.

But hear the Post:

"The Republican or Fremont party of 1856, was composed of Democrats, Americans and Whigs. The Democrats furnished about one-third of the rank and file, and two-thirds of all the orators. During the whole of the Presidential campaign, the Democratic element was allowed to have the front rank. If an orator was wanted, the request was urgent that a Democratic orator should be sent. 'Send us Thomas Davis if you can; don't send us Christopher Robinson if you can avoid it.' This was the cry then. A very important element was this Democratic element in the Fremont party of 1856. It was, apparently, the Alpha and Omega of the conglomeration."

After this, we grieve to say, our friend grows historical, and far from lucid. He hits out wildly in various directions, talking much of party leaders, and jealousy, and the crushing out of the Democrats, and a certain arrangement by which, if the Post is to be credited, it was shown that the less party could swallow the greater and contain it.

"From the hour of that arrangement until the present hour, these men of Democratic antecedents have been studiously pushed aside, by the party—now styled the American Republican party—which was then organized. And to-day, with such friends as were really honest and in earnest in their professions of hatred to slavery in 1856, they stand out by themselves, the Straight Republican party."

There is a suspicion of weakness in the last sentence. Our plucky contemporary has a heart beneath that iron mail, and it yearns to acknowledge those runaway Democrats. But the pity is short-lived. He gulps down the rising emotion and again thwacks them over the crown in this wise:

"The Republicans say they have been shamefully cheated and shamefully abused. We cannot help it. We did not cheat them. We cannot go to them, and help them punish their betrayers. Those of them who have gone out from the Democratic party, must themselves take care of their neighborhood affairs. We can gain nothing by becoming a party to their quarrel. On the other hand, we sacrifice principle the moment we give them our support. We would gladly welcome them, but they must leave behind them the iron which they have taken away. We grant them honesty—we admit that they are the victims of a swindle. But we despise their sectionalism, and without treason to our own faith, we cannot give them countenance or sympathy."

We consider this last, in truth, the crowning stroke of genius. The Democratic party of Rhode Island will not give "countenance or sympathy" to the wicked Republicans. The besieged Romans absolutely refuse all share of their brown-bread and cold water to Hannibal at Capua. Mr. Keitt of South Carolina absolutely refuses to be merciful to Mr. Grow of Pennsylvania.

But if their countenance and sympathy are thus steno to be denied the Republicans, to what market will the valuable commodities be carried? Having fairly demolished both sections of the opposition, what does our gallant foe propose to do with himself? Upon this point our friend is lamentably vague. His talents are evidently of the destructive rather than the constructive order. It is painful to find such a warrior at the end of such a battle with nothing left but a "watchword."

"With this watch-word" (something or other about squatter sovereignty) "we fought in 1852 and in 1856. Let us cling to it and be true to it; and by and by, with its words of peace emblazoned upon our banners, we shall triumph in Rhode Island, as we have twice triumphed in the nation."

Now a watchword is a very good thing in its way, and convenient on some occasions; but a watchword, without troops, without leaders, without guns, is a very slim affair to go into battle on, and we are afraid our over-courageous friend of the Post will find it so between this and the sixth of April.

To be serious, there is one vital error at the basis of the Post's whole article. It argues on the assumption that party organization and party supremacy are the great objects of all political action. It treats the whole matter as if the whole question at issue were whether one clique named Democratic, or another named Republican were to hold office. It supposes as the whole object of man's life the being amember in good standing of some party or other, and to follow obediently the behests of its leaders. The Post is not alone in such views. Too much of our political strife, on both sides, is based on just such. But those who see the principles at stake in every contest, and have at heart the will not like to comment on it. Besides it is to say, that although Mr. Liberator never expressed herself to me in so many words, yet I have always been convinced that certain little marks of attention to your humble servant were not without their meaning. But this is not to my present purpose. (To be continued.)

The Post on Politics.

Fortitude in adversity is a good thing. We like the men who never know when they are knocked down. If we had been present when the Romans sold the Carthaginian camp-ground at auction, we should undoubtedly have bid to the extent of our means on the particular corner-lot where Hannibal's tent stood, to show our appreciation of their pluck. We admire the N. Y. Express when it says that Fremont was run in 1856, just to beat Fillmore,—which he (or somebody else) did. We approve the London maxim of being jolly under difficulties. In plain Yankee we love to and love the Post therefore we like admiring.

When all the evils of Pandora's box have been showered upon a prostrate party, and even Hope, erroneously supposed to be still at the bottom, has vanished into air; when in fact the party is as flat down as the Administration party of Providence Plantations, and cannot stir a peg, there still is left one sovereign balm, the power of abusing its conquerors. Hand and foot may be bound, but the tongue is chainless. The Post has discovered this, and makes terrible work with its adversaries, or rather with its adversary, for the Post acknowledges but one. The Republican party, pure and simple, is the object of its wrath, and in this term are comprised all shades of the opposition, straight and crooked, American and African, "in one black burial-bent."

If there be any discrimination, the American Republicans get off with fewer words, but these few are pungent.

"There are two parties in Rhode Island, and only two—the Democratic party, and the Republican party. The latter party is bent with two organizations—the Straight Republican, and the American Republican. The last named of these organizations is guessed to be the larger of the two—but is yet not a party. It is a Rhode Island affair, gotten up and sustained principally for the accommodation of certain private interests, composed of materials as discordant as any in the political world, and ready to fall to pieces whenever the private interests we have referred to can be as well accommodated by its extinction."

"It is enough to say that it is the thing of an hour, and is just as corrupt to-day as it was in the spring of 1857, when it was organized by the tumbling together of the Fillmore and Fremont parties. It is made up of opposites, with no other apparent attraction between its parts, than a common hatred of Democracy—a common selfishness in the acquirement of the spoils of office,—and, amongst its leaders, a common disregard of the honor which tradition says belonged to the old Whig organization."

"The American Republicans, in their private conversations, profess hostility to the abolitionism of the Straight Republican organization. We know just how much confidence to place in these professions. We know just where they stood in 1856. We know just where they will stand when the Republican party takes the field in 1860. We know just how willing even the Fillmore portion of them were to sell out their national professions in 1857. Grant that they are not abolitionists at heart—and we are willing to grant it—it follows that no confidence can be placed in their professions. The more conservative portion of them elevated the National American party in 1857. Since then they have
